LUXEMBOURG'S

INDUSTRIAL

-LANDSCAPE -

LENTZWEILER

WILTZ

Circuit Foil - copper

for printed circuits

HOSINGEN

B Medical Systems

COLMAR-BERG Goodvear – tires

ROOST ○ Luxlait − dairy products

gas valves and systems

CEBI – automotive and

appliance sensors

LINTGEN
Rotarex –

STEINSEL •

 ECHTERNACH Eurocomposites;

BETZDORFSES – satellites

Panelux – boulangerie, pâtisserie, confiserie

MENSDORF

Kieffer Omnitec - technical and energy equipment

DuPont – plastics

CONTERN

IEE - detection sensors

GREVENMACHER

automotive glass

Carlex Glass -

Today, Luxembourg's industrial sector consists of 771 companies employing more than 34,000 people (7.3% of total employment in Luxembourg), and generating a turnover of EUR 14.5 billion (5.7% of the GDP).

In 2018, Luxembourg sets up a space agency to define and implement the country's strategy in this sector.

In 2015, the Ministry of the Economy launches a major strategic study entitled 'The Third Industrial Revolution'.

In 2000, the industrial sector accounts for 12.9% of domestic employment.

In 1985, the establishment of the satellite company SES in Betzdorf launches Luxembourg into a new era that prefigures the country's future ambitions in space.

In 1975, the global steel crisis hits Luxembourg hard.

In 1970, the industrial sector accounts for 44% of

From the 1960s onwards, industrial diversification accelerates with the emergence of companies specialising in various products for industrial usage (logistics equipment, fibres and composite materials, tools, machinery and equipment) or mass consumptior (household and cleaning products, etc.).

In 1949, Goodyear is the first major Americar

After 1945, the second industrial revolution begins in Luxembourg. Sectors linked to the automobile, chemical and electricity industrie experience robust growth.

MAMER
Ceratizit – tools for machining

MAMER
LUXEMBOURG
ArcelorMittal – steel
Landewyck Group – tobacco
Paul Wurth – equipment for industry

BASCHARAGE
Delphi – automotive components and systems
Kronospan – chipboard

Guardian – automotive and architectural glass

Keter Luxembourg – plastic household utensils

FOETZ
Chemolux – cleaning products

BETTEMBOURG
Presta Meat – meat

First industrial revolution. The steel and mining industries are established in southern Luxembourg. From 1870 to 1970,

From 1899 onwards, steelworkers from abroad outnumber Luxembourg workers, following a significant first wave of

SOURCES : STATEC, FEDIL • MERKUR 04/2020 • DESIGN : YOUTAG